AS-Schneider opens subsidiary in India:

The new pillar in a growth market

Nordheim (Germany) - 27. August 2021 - The industrial valve manufacturer AS-Schneider is pushing well ahead with its internationalization: The company, headquartered in Nordheim, Baden-Württemberg (Germany), has opened a new subsidiary in India. This country is considered as a very important growth market with an extremely positive forecast for the upcoming future.

India is already one of the largest industrial nations in the world - and the trend is continuing. Experts anticipate that the country could become the third largest economy on the planet by 2030. Not only local companies, but also many international companies from abroad are active on the Southeast Asian subcontinent - including numerous heavyweights from the chemical, pharmaceutical and the oil & gas industries. These companies in turn are among the most important target groups of the industrial valves specialist AS-Schneider, which is why the company has now opened the new subsidiary in Kerala, South India.

After the United States, the United Arab Emirates and Singapore, AS-Schneider is exploring and opening up another important international market. The main goal is to support both national and international customers in the most competent, individual and comprehensive way. To comply and fulfill this purpose, AS-Schneider puts together a professional sales, service and engineering team in Kerala.
